- The defected version of the application that was given to our team for testing only allows us to use the accounts created by the other team. One of the bugs (defect no 1. in the table below) does not let the user create more accounts successfully and because of that we could not perform performance/ volume / stress high – order testing on the application.
- Since we were not able to create more accounts we could not test for
  - the number of accounts can be created
  - the number of people we could invite to various events o
  - the number of people we could add to our network list which should be huge because the app deals with large-scale events as stated in the user manual.
